Writers Who Might Have Won Reputation at the Bar.

The old connection between law and literature was strengthened by the late Sir Lewis Morris, who practiced as a conveyancer in Lincoln's Inn while he was establishing his reputation as a poet. There have been several poets who have abandoned the steep places of the bar for the slopes of Parnassus, but the late Sir Lewis Morris is the only poet of repute who has found the tasks of conveyancer not incompatible with the cultivation of the muse. R. D. Blackmore, the author of "Lorna Doone," practiced as a conveyancer for several years. Sir Walter Scott, speaking of himself and law, said, "There was no great love between us, and it pleased heaven to decrease it on further acquaintance." Most of the poets who have sprung from the legal profession appear to have entertained the same unfavorable view. Cowper, who was a fellow pupil of Lord Thurlow in an attorney's office, was called to the bar at the Middle Temple, but he quickly yielded himself to the charms of literature. Deakin was a member of Lincoln's Inn, and Thomas Gray, the author of the famous "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard," stood for the bar, but neither of these got beyond the apprenticeship stage. Barry Cornwall was a solicitor.—Law Journal.

A HOMESICK PIONEER.

Peetic Plaintiff of One of the Early Settlers in Missouri.

In wonder the people of today read of the persistent cheerfulness with which the pioneers went about the business of settling the great west. Nevertheless it somehow gratifies the weakness of human nature to know that there was now and then a weaver of the deerskin leggings and conchank cap who grumbled.

One early settler who went from a snug New England town to the frontier, was moved to put his complaints into rhyme, one of which has survived and is now carefully preserved by the descendants of the early settler, who live surrounded by the peaceful prosperity and comfort of a Missouri farm right in the heart of the antithetical prairie:

Oh, lonesome, windy, grassy place,
Where buffalo and snake prevail—
The first with dreadful looking face,
The last with dreadful sounding tail—
No father live on central bump
And be a Yankee Doodle bug.
Than where I never see a kump
And shake to death with fever ague.
Judging from the last line, one might conclude that an acute attack of "ague" had suddenly prevented him from continuing.

Pie in England.
The came to the fore in England many centuries ago. It was made in the form of mince pie and was used in the celebration of Christmas. In its primitive stage it was baked in a deep sided dish, lined and covered with rolled out dough. The filling was of forcemeat, richly sweetened and spiced. This spicing and flavoring wood for the pie was the honey more to the Christ in the manger. For years and years this custom of having the Christmas mince pie prevailed, but finally it was dropped and wide by the Puritans as a form of idolatry, and the government after parliament had suppressed the celebration of the birth of Christ, the custom of the baking and eating of the mince pie. Eventually man reasoning led to the taking off of the ban, and the pie eating custom was renewed.—London Standard.

Firm Resolution.
Dave Soldier was a brave Confederate soldier who was killed at Richmond and who, in spite of his sufferings, always took a cheerful view of the situation. One day when he was recovering from a violent fever, he approached his cot and tendered him a pair of homemade socks.

"Accept them," said he, "I only wish the dear woman who knit them could present them to you in person."

"Thank you very much," said David gravely. "But I have decided that I never shall wear another pair of socks while I live."

The Scout of Flowers.
As a rule the scent of flowers does not exist in them as in a store or gland, but rather as a breath, an exhalation. While the flower lives it breathes out its sweetness, but when it dies the fragrance usually ceases to exist. The method of stealing from the flower its fragrance was a riddle long ago. It is no new thing, and it is not known when it was discovered that better, animal fat or oil would absorb the odor given off by the flowers placed near them and would themselves become fragrant.

How to Make Home Happy.
Mary (angrily)—I think you are the biggest fool in town. John (mildly)—Well, Mary, mother used to tell me that when I was a little boy, but I never thought she was right until I married you.—Liverpool Mercury.

A Thackeray Retort.
Being asked once whether he had read any of the books of a popular novelist, Thackeray rejoined: "Well, no. You see, I am like a patry cook. I bake tarts and I sell 'em, but I eat bread and butter."

The best remedy for wrongs done us is to forget them.—Africus.

A BIT TOO SHREWED.

One Venture In Which the Captain Overreached Himself.

One of Uncle Sam's customs officials, noted for his success in unmasking smugglers, said the other day in a discussion of a customs officer's duties: "One must be shrewd, but not too shrewd; otherwise one overreaches himself, like Captain Harrow of Islesborough."

"Captain Harrow of Islesborough was trading at Key West in a small vessel. Business took him up the coast to Tampa bay, and he bought twenty dozen chickens from a farmer at $4 a dozen.

"The chickens were all shrews—some a few days old and no bigger than canary birds; some fat and large, like turkey gobblers. The captain expected to make a lot of money out of them. He was very shrewd at a trade.

"Well, at Key West a hotel man came aboard and looked the chickens over.

"They are fine birds," he said. "How much?"

"If you pick them out yourself, said Captain Harrow shrewdly, 'I'll have to charge you $1 a dozen. If I pick them out, I can let you have them for $3."

"All right. You pick them out," said the hotel man.

"Captain Harrow picked out a dozen chickens of the canary bird size.

"Here you are, twelve prime broilers," he said, with a leer.

"Go ahead," said the hotel man calmly; "another dozen."

"The next dozen was of necessity larger.

"Go on," said the hotel man. "Keep on picking them out."

"And the third dozen was larger still. The captain looked at his patron anxiously.

"Keep right on."

"The next dozen was fine and plump, and the next comprised the biggest and fattest of the chickens.

"Keep right on picking them out, captain."

"Then at last Captain Harrow saw how he had overreached himself. The hotel man bought his whole lot of chickens at $3, and thus the captain lost on the speculation $20 in cash, to say nothing of feed and labor."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE WORLD DRYING UP.
Possibility That the Human Race Will Die of Thirst.
We are to die of thirst. Comparatively few persons know the suffering involved in a thirst for which there is no help at hand. The consuming thirst more than the pain of any wound makes the battlefield a hell. Yet death by thirst is the doom forecast for the era by grim scientists. Geologists find that the fresh water supply of the globe is falling. They have data which point to the gradual withdrawal of the streams and other bodies of water from the surface. Both in Africa and central Asia, and, indeed, in all the great levels the water beds are drying up. A great number of lakes well known in the history books have entirely disappeared. For example, Lake Chirona, in Africa, has vanished with in recent years, as has also Lake Ngami, discovered by Livingston. Lake Tchad is more than half dried up. For centuries bodies of water in central Asia have been evaporating. The birth of rivers, extending 2,000 years ago, great cities stood in east Turkistan there are found only vast and depressing stretches of sand. The river Tarsin, once a principal Asiatic route, is almost gone and Lob Nor, formerly four times the area of Lake Geneva, is now but a shallow marsh. The same sad conditions are noted in Europe. In the Kingdom of the most pushing city in the czar's distracted realm, was surrounded by water. The facts recited to show the drying up process are convincing proofs of the necessity of preserving our forests with more care.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Test Case.
"I'm a 'beauty doctor,'" announced the stranger with the hand satchel full of cosmetics and massage machines. "You may think I could get any practice around here?"

"You make ugly things pretty, don't you?" drawled the old farmer in the speckled shirt.

"That's my business, sir."

"Was, if you'll go down back of my barn you'll find an old slate covered over with one eye and one horn and wrinkle like canals all over her face. She's the ugliest cow in seven states, and if you can make her pretty I'll give you a dollar."—Chicago News.

Apparatus.
"Pardon me," began the new electrician. "Are you the Mr. Cadley Nurtich who wrote that magazine article last month for us?"

"Yes," interrupted Nurtich, "but of course you'll understand that I don't make a business of that sort of thing."

"Of course. I know that. I read the article."—Philadelphia Press.

THIS NEEDLE MADE GOOD TIME

Entered Hand and Traveled Through Body in Ten Weeks.

(From the Philadelphia Inquirer.)
Ten weeks after Miss Maggie Shields, 35 years old, ran a large needle into her hand while washing some clothes, and after her hand had swollen to such proportions that four doctors told her that amputation was inevitable, the needle was removed from the woman's neck by Dr. John H. McCreary, of 116 North Fifth street.

Dr. McCreary considers the case to be one of the most unique of its kind in the history of medical science. Despite the fact that the needle gradually worked itself up through her arm and body to her neck, where it was found, an abscess formed on Miss Shields' hand, which was so serious that her hand at one time was swollen to three times its natural size.

The accident happened in the early part of June. Miss Shields was rubbing the clothes vigorously against the washboard in a tub. Suddenly she felt a piercing pain and dropped the washing, crying: "I have run a needle into my hand!"

The wound bled very little, but while Miss Shields was on her way to a doctor to have the needle removed her hand commenced to swell. When the doctor probed for the needle he could not find it. He told Miss Shields, she says, that she had made a mistake—that she had struck her hand with the needle, but that it was not in her body.

Satisfied with the explanation, she returned home, but her hand and arm continued to swell. Three other doctors probed for the needle, failed to find it, and finally when the abscess on her hand developed to serious proportions, advised in favor of amputation.

For ten weeks the abscess continued. Finally, one day last week, Miss Shields felt severe pain in the left side of her neck. She went to

Dr. McCreary and told him that she felt a pricking sensation, as though there was some metallic body in her neck.

Dr. McCreary, who was aware of the story of the needle, made an examination and found that there was some foreign body in the neck, not far from the surface. Knowing that many cases have occurred of metallic substances travelling throughout the body, he told the housekeeper that the pain which was troubling her was probably caused by the needle which she ran into her finger.

Miss Shields was incredulous, but Dr. McCreary performed a slight operation and pulled out the missing needle with a pair of forceps.

YANCY CHALLENGES JOE.
Brown Will Not Meet The Doughty Warrior on Stump.

ATLANTA, Sept. 21.—One of today's political developments was a challenge issued by Carter to Joseph M. Brown, the democratic nominee for governor, for a series of debates over the state.

The political situation in Georgia was further complicated by an affidavit signed by H. B. Suttler and read at the Yancy Carter rally, declaring that J. E. Bodenhamer, local politician, had told him (Suttler) that a deal was made by Joseph M. Brown's managers to deliver to Thomas E. Watson, popular candidate for the presidency, the electoral vote of Georgia if Watson would support Brown for the governorship. Suttler swore Bodenhamer told him he (Bodenhamer) was present when the deal was made.

Tonight Mr. Bodenhamer declared he had never had anything to do with any conference between any representative of the Brown management and Mr. Watson, but said he hoped some deal of that kind might have been made.

MAYOR GETS A SMALL SALARY

Serves His Town for Dollar a Month—and Boards Himself.

DALLAS, TEX., Sept. 17.—One dollar a month is a pretty small salary for the chief executive of a town to receive for the multitude of duties he has to perform, but that is what J. D. Ford, mayor of Simpson, Texas, is paid, aggregating at the close of the year $12—not enough to cover the postage of the office he fills. And Mayor Ford pays a lot more money out of his pocket besides. For there are other bills coming in all the time which have to be paid. And as no expense account is allowed him by the town council, what else is there for the mayor to do but pay every bill that comes in?

Mr. Ford accepted the office of mayor which he has held for more than a year, because he took pride in his town. For many years he has been advocating the building up of the town, which has a population of 3,000, and as editor of the local paper, the Simpson Times, he has taken advantage of every opportunity that came his way. There, to better carry out his ideas of making a greater Simpson, he was willing to serve as mayor for the very low salary of $1 a month.

The people of the town and county are so well satisfied with Mr. Ford that they are now talking of sending him to the legislature. Unless they insist upon doing so he will be willing to serve another term as mayor at the rate of $1 per month.

Mr. Ford has plenty of work to do in his position as chief executive. He keeps the streets clean and in good condition, and sees that the schools are properly managed and the health of the people kept up to proper standard and the departments of the municipal government are properly conducted. Then there is his paper to edit, which he must do between whistles. So it is easy to see the mayor of Simpson, Texas, is not only a busy man but a truly public spirited one.

Rev. Cobb in His New Home.

(Lyons Progress.)
The protracted meeting at the Baptist church has drawn large congregations and Rev. Cobb has been preaching some fine sermons. The singing, too, has been fine and the meeting is doing a vast amount of good. Rev. Cobb is an able minister, noble Christian and his work in Lyons is pleasing his congregation.

While his friends in Bulloch hated to give up Rev. T. J. Cobb, they will rejoice in the success which is attending his ministry in Toombs county, and after an acquaintance with him of about twelve years, can endorse the opinion expressed above.

Sheriff's Sales.
On the first Tuesday in October, 1908, Sheriff Kendrick will sell before the court house door the following property:

120 acres of land in 130th district adjoining the Melderin place, levied on as the property of Wm. Bales to satisfy an execution in favor of J. T. Brannen.

One-half interest in 200 acres, known as the Sol, Atkins place, in the 120th district, levied upon as the property of Roach Atkins.

One tract 120x186 feet in the town of Pulaski, levied on as the property of the Pulaski Ginney to satisfy an execution in favor of Raines Hardware Co. and The Allen Anti-Trust Co.

Two tracts of land in the 130th district, one containing 112 acres adjoining land of Noah Hendrix; the other containing 219 acres, adjoining land Mike Parrish, levied upon as the property of J. D. Lanier, to satisfy an execution in favor of A. M. Robertson & Co.

One lot in the town of Metter, levied upon as the property of Eunice Burns to satisfy an execution in favor of R. B. Sheridan.

One-fourth undivided interest in 220 acres in the 130th district, adjoining lands of L. A. Scarborough, levied upon as the property of W. S. Finch against F. H. Hendrix.

One McCormick hay press and one two-horse wagon, the property of D. B. Colson; to satisfy an execution in favor of C. C. Daughtry.

J. P. Akins, guardian of Camilla Akins, will sell her one-tenth interest in 920 acres in the 120th district adjoining lands of H. T. Jones and others.

S. A. Hall, guardian of Mamie and Maud Hall, will sell their two-tenth interest in 920 acres in 120th district bounded by lands of H. T. Jones and others.

Z. T. DeLoach, administrator estate Roxie Dekle, deceased, will sell 100 acres belonging to said deceased, being situated in Emanuel county and adjoining lands of Memphis Jones and others.

At the same time the lands and bonds of J. W. and J. L. Olliff, deceased, will be offered for sale, the sale to be continued from day to day until all property is sold.

FARM DEMONSTRATIONS

WILL BE GIVEN IN BULLOCH AND OTHER COUNTIES OF THE FIRST.

GOVERNMENT SENDS EXPERT

Who Will Instruct Agents in Each County in the Science of Farming.

(Savannah News.)
Farmers co-operative cotton and corn demonstration work, which has proved so successful in other states, and which has been a great benefit to the farmers of a few counties in the northern part of Georgia, will be taken up in the First congressional district. Appointments of sub-agents have been made and they will begin work among the farmers within a few days.

Mr. E. Gentry, special representative of the agricultural department of the government, who has been assigned to Georgia in this work was here Friday morning to confer with Congressman Charles G. Edwards regarding the experiments which will start as soon as possible. Arrangements have nearly been completed and by October 15th it is expected fourteen sub-agents will be going through the district talking scientific agriculture and preparing to plant experiment patches of corn and cotton.

"The object of the agricultural department in going to this trouble and expense is simply to increase the earning capacity of farmers by means of teaching them how to take advantage of the opportunities they have," said Mr. Gentry. "We do not want to increase the yield of cotton, but we want to show the farmers how to produce more cotton on the same amount of land, then use the surplus for raising food stuffs of which the country is falling short every year."

"The fourteen sub-agents each have a district assigned to them and each will be expected to start from thirty to sixty experiment patches, plant them with first class seed furnished by the government, cultivate them along scientific lines, and to instruct farmers in the community how to do the work. The plan is to get a successful farmer to give three acres of ground for the experiment."

"The agent will superintend the cultivation from start to finish and the farmer will not be allowed to employ any method save that which the agent directs. After the crop is well along the agent will designate days when he will meet the farmers in the vicinity and lecture to them on the work. We have proved that we can show to the farmer how he can nearly double the yield of cotton and corn on the same acreage."

"The instructions in raising cotton and corn are the first we give and after a year that we branch out into different lines in the communities where the first work has proved a success. The following years bring instructions in raising vegetables and verified crops. Every farmer must be successful in raising the staple crops before he can ever expect to be a success at diversified farming."

The following agents have been appointed and will receive their instructions from Mr. Gentry at once, after which they will begin the work: Emanuel county, Sol. J. Tyson, John A. Warnock, D. H. Smith; Bulloch county, Ben. S. Mooney, John G. Trapnell, Milledge J. Rushing; Effingham county, B. W. Cubbage; Tattnall county, Lomlie L. Parker; Jonathan B. Kennedy, F. R. Gross; Burke county, Thomas J. Hillis, T. J. Barnick, W. C. Sandeford. The counties which will be affected are Bulloch, Burke, Tattnall,

THE SAVANNAH AUTO RACES

WILL HAVE ENTRIES OF CUP WINNERS IN GRAND PRIZE.

(Savannah News.)
Two winners of the Vanderbilt cup, when races for that famous trophy were the crown of auto speed events, will contest on opposing teams for the American Grand Prize over Chatham county roads on Thanksgiving Day.

Aside from the vast interest in the great event, regardless of the names of the drivers, the contest between these two men will add another tinge of spice to the hurrying of the speed mania. The two men who of three men in the world are holders of a Vanderbilt cup title are Victor Hemery and Louis Wagner. Formerly they were racing partners and Hemery was to have taken the wheel of the car on the day Wagner won his victory. That he did not, gave Wagner his chance and they are now rivals.

Hemery won in 1905 and Wagner in 1906. The two famous drivers will be among the starters for the Grand Prize. That each will do his best not only to win first place but to add a feather to his cap by beating a man who holds the same honor he holds, goes without saying. Hemery will drive a Benz, German car, and Wagner will drive a Fiat, Italian car. Each drove a French car to victory in the former Long Island events.

Entries are also assured of thirteen more cars, although as yet they have not been completed by the international clubs of their respective counties. From France will come a Clement-Bayard, two Renaults, two De Dietrichs, one Morobio, and two Panhards. Italy will have, besides the three flats already entered, two Italys and one Isotta, while Germany will be further represented by two of the three Mercedes which competed in the Grand Prix. The Savannah Automobile Club has sent out a notice to the effect that accommodations have been found for 12,000 visitors. This will insure plenty of room for visitors, and all should be comfortable during the race week. Paul Lacroix also announced today that one of the Renaults would be driven by Lewis Strange.

BOUGHT BARNHILL STOCK.
Messrs. Brannen and Booth Merchandised for a Day.

Messrs. J. E. Brannen and Hinton Booth, who attended the sale of the H. C. Barnhill business at Stilson last Thursday, bought the entire stock of merchandise at public sale, and for a day they were full-fledged "merchant princes."

After a swift experience of twenty-four hours, during which they sold $300 worth of goods, they disposed of the remainder of the stock at a good profit to Messrs. W. J. and Jas. Brannen, who are merchandising at Stilson.

These men will each receive a salary of about $300 a year from the government and will be under the direct supervision of Mr. Gentry, who has charge of the whole state. The First district is the first to receive his attention this fall, but he intends to start the work all over the state. When the system has been put in good working order an assistant will likely be appointed who would necessarily have to be a man well versed in cotton culture. Mr. Gentry will have his headquarters at Jonesboro.

Congressman Edwards has been trying to interest the department in the First district and has succeeded in attracting enough attention to have Mr. Gentry make this the first stop this fall.

WANTS SOUTH TO DIVIDE VOTE

FOR OUR GOOD.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 24.—"If you entered the June primary you are bound by the implied contract that you would vote for the nominee of the October election, and a man with just common, ordinary honesty can do nothing but keep his implied contract and vote for Joe Brown for governor."

This statement was contained in the political address made in the court house this morning by Hon. Thomas E. Watson and created a sensation among the large number of democrats present. Mr. Watson spoke to a large crowd and his speech was said by many democrats present to have been one of the finest political efforts ever heard in this city.

Mr. Watson denounced Bryan for his attitude concerning the negro question, and declared that the republicans were not the friends of the South, while Bryan and the democrats were playing to the negro vote. He said that Bryan had been reared in the lap of social equality and could not be expected to have the attitude toward negroes that was entertained by the Southern people.

He made the declaration that Mr. Bryan had sent his son and daughter to mixed schools in Nebraska, and that he contributed money each year toward the maintenance of an institution that was for the joint education of white and colored races. He also charged that the secretary of the Cosmopolitan Club was speaking for Bryan. "The Southern papers will not let you know these things," said he. "News that will hurt Mr. Bryan and the democratic party is kept from the people."

Mr. Watson made a plea for a division of the Southern national vote, declaring that the South would never receive anything of benefit until it divided itself into two white parties and was considered doubtful.

YOUNG LADY ABDUCTED

BY WHITE MAN IN THE GUISE OF NEGRO WOMAN.

USED HER PISTOL EFFECTIVELY

Motive of Abductor Was Either Robbery or to Hold Captive for a Ransom.

RAMOSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 25.—Planning to rob her house or hold the girl herself for a ransom, a white man disguised as a negro woman, early last night attempted to abduct Miss Lucile Linton, who lives alone at her home near home. During the afternoon, Miss Linton was handed a note by a supposed negro woman, purporting to be from her brother-in-law, George Green, of Athens, Ga., stating that he had been injured in a runaway and asking her to come to the home of Mr. Ritchie, three miles from town.

After leaving home with the negro in a buggy, Miss Linton for some reason became suspicious, and on the outskirts of the town refused to go any further.

The supposed negro grabbed Miss Linton, but the latter drew a pistol and fought him off. During the scuffle the negro attempted to throw

For the Want of a Friend.

What must be the feeling of the man betrayed by that one in whom he trusted?

Behind the bars of the county jail is Charles Wells, yet barely past young manhood, to answer for the crime of forgery. He acknowledges his guilt, and asks only for an opportunity to plead guilty that he may the more quickly expiate his crime.

To our community he is a stranger, and to our sight he is only a criminal overtaken in a crime. Since he committed the crime, it is not just that he should be punished, not alone for his own deserts but for the good of society as well.

But how comes Charles Wells behind the bars? It was for want of a friend. Tricked by one in whom he trusted, he left his guard. In ignorance he allowed the net woven about him; and never suspected until it was too late. What must have been the feeling of despair that seized his soul when he found that he was betrayed!

We will lose sight of the criminal and remember that Charles Wells is a mother's son. At one time he was the pride of a mother's heart, and his life was as innocent of wrong as our own pure babe. If that mother lives, he is still all that in her eyes. And the good is not entirely gone from him, for in jail he begged, "Don't let my people know it." Ashamed of his plight, he would spare his loved ones the sorrow of knowing it. Led far out by a friendless world, he has not yet passed beyond the love for those who love him. Suffering for his own sins he prefers to bear the bitterness alone.

How comes poor Charles Wells where he stands today? For want of a friend—a friend to say him "Nay," when he would do wrong. Who knows but that a word of counsel at the right moment would have changed the entire course of his life? Who can say that a prayer and a word of Christian advice would not have ended a course of crime?

The intricacies of the human mind and the passions of the human heart are mysteries that are never solved. No one looking in the face of Wells could know what motive impelled him, or how slight a touch would have changed his heart. As he waited about our city for an opportunity to consummate his crime, never dreaming that the secret was known except to the one of whom he made a confidant, how great the need for a true friend to utter a word of caution! How great the opportunity for those who knew of the impending crime to have done a Christly deed. For several days it was known to many that a crime was about to be committed, and in breathless stillness the citizen and the law awaited the criminal when he should attempt the deed. Not one who knew of the proposed crime, but that would readily advise a friend against wrong—would have done it for the sake of the friend and for the good of society; but Wells was a stranger. He had but one friend, and that friend was—how sad the thought!—that friend was untrue.

The crime had been committed and there is no defense for Charles Wells. He will admit his guilt and the judge will pass sentence upon him for his crime. But who can say that the Great Judge will not say to those who let pass the opportunity for Christian counsel, that they, too, are guilty?

It is too late to recall this lost opportunity, but others may come.

Thanks for the Light.

The public is thankful for the light in the post office lobby with which it has been favored during the week.

In referring to the lack of it last week, the TIMES meant no unkindness either to the postmaster or to the landlord, not knowing who was at fault. The public was complaining for the want of the light, and it was that complaint which prompted our remarks. Since the want has been supplied, we commend the parties in authorities for their kindness.

A GLIMPSE AT NEW ZEALAND, Dr. J. B. Cone Receives Souvenirs From His Son in Navy.

Our friend, Dr. J. B. Cone, received in his mail Monday evening a copy of a magazine published in Auckland, New Zealand islands, 4,000 miles south of the Hawaiian islands and 6,000 miles from San Francisco, in the middle of the South Pacific ocean, which was gotten out in honor of the visit of the great American battleship fleet to that port. The magazine would do credit to any printing office in this or any other country. The pictures depict a modern city, the buildings equal to anything in Savannah or Atlanta, the streets wide and well paved and the town decorated in best holiday attire. When we remember that not very many years ago, not over 75, the Maoris, a savage tribe of people, who lived by war and practiced cannibalism, inhabited the islands in that part of the world, we find in their stead large, modern cities, immense farms—on one of which Dr. Cone has a picture of nine teams of five horses each pulling large disc and sulky plows, plowing on one land—just think of it, forty-five horses pulling nine plows, one behind the other, breaking the same land preparatory to a wheat crop! A ship, landing self-sacrificing missionaries on that far-away shore, being followed by the push and energy of the Caucasian race has changed the face of the country from savages to conditions which can give us lessons on lines of business life and farming operations.

Wesley Cone sends his father, Dr. Cone, souvenirs of the various places he visits so that by the time he returns home the Doctor will have mementoes of Wesley's visit to points in a zig-zag line clear around the world.

After leaving New Zealand the fleet steamed to Sydney and then to Melbourne, Australia, and are now traveling up the Indian ocean on the west side of Australia, on their way to visit the Philippine islands, from whence they will doubtless visit Japan and then start home by way of the Indian ocean, Suez canal, Mediterranean sea and across the Atlantic back to the home shores; having accomplished the record-breaking feat of a fleet of battle ships sailing around the world. Their entertainment at the various stops being all that heart could wish of good feeling and friendship.

Theopian Athletic Literary Society

met Friday, September 25th, and a highly entertaining program was rendered. Among the numbers were a study of Joel Chandler Harris' writings and life; Debate, "Resolved, that the press is the greatest public benefactor;" several readings, impromptus and speeches.

Though this meeting proved somewhat profitable to the treasurer, Messrs. Tom Donaldson, Ernest Smith, Dan Arden and James Fordham did not find it so, as they were ordered before the committee of order and given a heavy fine. Mr. Fordham "balked" at his fine but at last a good one was landed on him. Several times during the meeting he violated rules and each time he maintained that he was innocent.

Two new members were accepted on their promise that they would aid in entertainments, both public and private.

We again give the public a cordial invitation to be present at our next meeting, to be held next Friday.

IN THE LOCAL FIELD

Little Events Happening in City and County Briefly Related.

Rev. and Mrs. M. H. Massey have returned from a two-weeks visit with relatives in Washington county.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Statesboro Methodist church was held Monday, being conducted by the presiding elder, Rev. J. M. Lovett.

Mr. G. S. Blackburn has so far recovered from a recent spell of typhoid fever that he is able to leave the sanitarium, where he underwent treatment.

Hay wire at Raines Hardware Co.

Dr. M. M. Lively left yesterday afternoon for a visit to his old home in Burke county, having been called there by the illness of his father who is 76 years of age.

Mr. M. S. Dekle, of the Metter neighborhood, is a visitor to the city today, having come down to enter his daughter in the agricultural school for the term.

Mr. W. C. Parker left Saturday for a visit to his mother at Ludlow, from whence he returned Monday, reporting her in very good health for one of her advanced age.

Mr. A. J. Bird spent Sunday night in the city, having come up from Savannah the evening before. He went out home yesterday morning with an automobile party to Metter.

The new advertisement of the Simmons Co. in this issue should be read by all, and is of especial interest to those who are liable to need clothing of the highest class during the coming fall.

Brick, lime and cement at Raines Hardware Co.

Friends regret to learn of the quite serious illness of Mr. Geo. R. Hagin at his home in the 48th district, he having suffered a relapse in an illness almost throughout the spring and summer.

Little Miss Kittie Turner has almost completely recovered from a recent attack of diphtheria, and without mishap will be well again in a few days. No other cases of the disease have developed in the city.

We will sell you best Alabama lime at $1 per barrel.

RAINES HARDWARE CO.

The Statesboro Mercantile Co. bids for your clothing trade, and presents its statement in another column. The well known brands of clothing carried by this firm are exceedingly popular with all judges of good clothing.

Prof. R. J. H. DeLoach, of the agricultural department of the State University, with headquarters in Griffin, arrived yesterday for a brief business trip in Bulloch. His numerous friends are delighted to hear of his recent promotion in his work.

We will gin your sea island cotton at 85 cents per hundred pounds and guarantee our work. Your cotton is insured while in our care. BULLOCH OIL MILLS.

A pair of mules belonging to the Savannah & Statesboro railway and engaged in hauling wood for the road near Arcola, were killed by a falling tree Monday evening. The mules were attached to a wagon at the time, when one of the cutters felled a tree across their backs.

The first district agricultural college will open at noon today with appropriate exercises, which will be attended by a large crowd. The attendance of pupils for the term promises to be good, as large numbers have arrived yesterday and today from other counties.

We will gin your sea island cotton at 85 cents per hundred pounds and guarantee our work. Your cotton is insured while in our care. BULLOCH OIL MILLS.

Nothing doing yet in Clinch affairs. That gentleman, so eagerly waited for by Bulloch county friends, rests quietly in the Wadesboro jail while the habeas corpus case is pending before the supreme court. He will probably be with us during the next week or so.

Cotton Brisk Today.

Today is a lively one in the local cotton market, the streets being jammed at the present hour (10 o'clock.) The prices are about as they have been for a week—8 to 9 cents for upland and 18 to 19 for sea island.

Mr. R. M. Williams, the Metter merchant, spent Monday night in the city, having made the trip from Savannah the evening before in an automobile which he chartered for the occasion. After spending the night in the city, the party left early yesterday morning for Metter.

The literary and musical entertainment at the auditorium last Monday evening, the first under the management of Misses Jones and Kennedy, was well attended, and was indeed a pleasant affair. These occasions will be monthly features of the school, and will be looked forward to with pleasant anticipation by the public.

City Tax Books Open.

The books for the collection of city taxes will be opened on October 1st, to remain open till November 15th.

W. H. BLITCH, Recorder.

Meeting at Register. Beginning on October 11th there will be a meeting at Register, Ga., in the Methodist church. Rev. Ed. Cowan, evangelist, will do the preaching and lead the singing. Everyone has a special invitation to come. W. H. KETCHUM.

Office For Rent.

Large office, front room, over Parker & Hughes store, for rent. W. C. PARKER.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Baum of this city announce the engagement of their daughter, Alva, to Mr. Hiram Baum of St. Louis, Mo. The marriage will take place some time this winter—Dublin Times.

The many friends of Miss Baum in Statesboro, where she resided for a number of years, will be interested in the approaching happy event.

Farm for Rent.

Good farm for rent on share crop plan, 40 acres cleared land, in good neighborhood, convenient to churches and schools, on rural mail route. Also one good building lot for sale cheap. Parties who write me must enclose stamp for reply. G. S. BLACKBURN, Box 326, Statesboro, Ga.

To Hear Complaints.

The city council will hold a special session next Saturday afternoon to hear from tax payers who have complaints against the work of the recent board of assessors. The indications are that the session will be a long one, as the assessors are said to have raised the valuations on quite a good deal of property.

For Sale.

One thoroughbred Pole bull, four years old, and also cows. W. B. JONES, Herndon, Ga.

Lycium Course Monday Evening.

The first entertainment of the lycium course will be presented at the Institute auditorium next Monday evening, and will consist of a lecture by W. Powell Hale, impersonator. The course is under the auspices of the Statesboro chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and the proceeds are to be applied to the monument fund to be erected during the winter.

The Kinard House.

near the court house, facing the Statesboro Sanitarium, is prepared to care for permanent and transient guests. Rates are reasonable and service excellent.

Mrs. M. J. KINARD.

Jones-Olliff. At the Baptist parsonage at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. Perry Jones and Miss Ruth Olliff were united in marriage. Rev. M. H. Massey officiating. Immediately the young couple left for a few days' trip to Savannah and Jacksonville.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. J. F. Olliff, and is a most estimable young woman. The groom is a member of the firm of J. C. Jones & Sons, and is an enterprising business man.

WATSON TO SPEAK HERE.

Will Address Voters of Bulloch Two Weeks From Today.

Hon. T. E. Watson will address the voters of Bulloch county in the interest of his candidacy for president on Wednesday, Oct. 14th. The speaking will occur in the forenoon at the court house, and everybody is invited to attend.

Mr. Watson has many staunch friends in Bulloch, and besides is admired by many who do not agree with him politically. He will have a good crowd to hear him.

For Sale Cheap.

Two 5-room houses, together with 2 1/2 acres of land in West Statesboro, will sell altogether or cut to suit purchaser. A chance for a bargain if sold within 30 days. For particulars apply to T. L. Beasley, Swainsboro, Ga.

LECTURED ON CIVIL WAR.

Hon. Philip Morris Entertained Small Audience at Court House.

Hon. Philip Morris, of Lyons, lectured Monday evening at the court house, his subject being the "Civil War."

The lecture was made up of reminiscences of the war, both humorous and serious, including the battles in which the lecturer participated. A humorous incident was related of a soldier of who, in the edge of camp, was attacked by a wounded bear which some of his comrades were chasing. The soldier "lit a rag" into camp, yelling every jump: "Here we come! Here we come!" A few months later, when the struggle had ceased, the frightened soldier led to the altar a blushing bride, and as the couple stepped forth before their friends, one of the old comrades cried, "Here we come!" Mr. Morris' lecture was short, but was highly enjoyed by the small crowd who heard it.

With the Athletians.

The Alchian literary society held a regular meeting at the Institute auditorium last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The president, Miss Fronie Rustin, being absent, the vice-president, Miss Onida Williams, presided. After a short business meeting the following program was rendered:

Song by society.
Piano solo—Janie Beasley.
Reading—Coralie Rogers.
Impromptu—Dorothy Alberti.
Piano solo—Sallie McDougald.
Recitation—Annie Olliff.
Impromptu—Louise Hughes.
Song, selected—Pearl Holland, Ruth Donaldson, Missie Jones and Mary Beth Smith.
Reading—Willie Leigh Tinley.
Vocal solo—Barry Harrell.

For Sale.

Nice cottage with six rooms, well finished and conveniently situated near business section. Will easily rent for $15 per month. Good investment to go at a big sacrifice. Address M. L. T., Box 366, Statesboro, Ga.

New Baptist Church Organized.

On last Sunday morning a presbytery composed of Rev. J. B. Dixon and Deacon J. D. Tillman, of Register, and Rev. M. H. Massey, of Statesboro, constituted the new Sinkhole Baptist church, organizing with twenty-six members.

This church was organized as a result of the labors of Rev. J. B. Dixon, evangelist of the Bulloch County Association, in that community. The church is in the territory between Excelsior, in the western part of the county, and Fellowship, in the south-eastern part, a distance of 28 or 30 miles between them, and is 6 or 8 miles from Emitt Grove, so it will be seen that the new organization does not encroach upon the territory of any other Baptist church.

With Mr. Dixon's first work in that section it was apparent that good work might be done and so the executive committee of the association assigned that field to him as part of his work, and now there is a prospect of a good, strong church being developed in a hitherto neglected field, so far as Baptist preaching was concerned.

A STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE

WINS FOR THE HAMILTON PIANOS THE NAME "WORLD-WIDE FAVORITES."

The export market is—in artistic features as well as in durability—the severest test for any piano. The Hamilton Piano has found a ready recognition by the leading musicians of the art centers of Europe.

In 1900 the Baldwin Co.'s exhibit at the World's Exposition in Paris was viewed and admired by 50,000,000 visitors. The Hamilton Piano was awarded the Medaille d'Argent.

In 1903, at the very successful Australian Federal Exposition, in Melbourne, the "Hamilton" carried off the highest possible award: the First Order of Merit.

Today the Baldwin Co.'s instruments grace the homes of the wealthy and cultured in almost every country of the globe, recognized as the embodiment of all that is best in piano building. they are in fact: "WORLD-WIDE FAVORITES."
